

You are invited to be an EWP Reader!

Each fall, a group of faculty read completed Electronic Writing Portfolios. We are looking to train a new group of readers, and you are invited to be part of this service opportunity. This is a great opportunity for new faculty!

Readers will be trained in a 1 day workshop, then will be assigned 12-15 portfolios to read and assess over the next month. After portfolios have been read, we ask readers to attend a focus group to discuss student writing and to complete evaluations.

A stipend of $100 will be given for each completed set of readings, focus group attendance, and completed evaluations. We will ask faculty who complete the training to commit to reading portfolios for three years. Readings are conducted each fall. This is truly a University service opportunity that allows you to make your own schedule.

Readers must be full-time at Eastern, hold at least a master's degree, and have experience teaching undergraduate courses.

Workshop Dates: Friday, October 1, 2010; 8:00 a.m.-4:30 p.m.
