

Department of Communication Studies
Inspired Achievement Award

This award is designed to honor an exceptional Communication Studies Junior or Senior who has overcome adversity and/or achieved significant accomplishments in their program of study. Adversity is defined very broadly and could include a overcoming school challenges from, for example, dealing with the transitional issues associated with moving or transferring to college or dealing with personal issues that detracted from college work. The criteria the Scholarship & Awards Committee will use in making the award do NOT concern the nature of the adversity, but rather the inspirational story around it.

To nominate a student for the award:

1. Nomination narrative that describes the inspirational nature of the student's story, including an explanation of at least one specific accomplishment.
2. Complete application form (see below)

We will consider:

1. An increase in overall GPA
2. Major GPA
3. Nomination narrative
