

Patricia Belleville

I used the Faculty Development Grant to attend and present at the National Art Education conference in Chicago Illinois. This is the largest art education conference in the world. She co-taught with Kit Morice, curator of Education at Tarble Arts Center at Eastern a workshop on Indonesian Shadow puppets. Art teachers, art education students, and university professors from around the United States attended this workshop. In addition to this she attended presentations on research and artistic development. Various researchers from around the world gave these sessions.