

MBA 5680, Organizational Behavior and Group Dynamics

Course Description: Organizational and business application of theory and research in individual differences, interpersonal relations, and small group research. Prerequisites: BUS 3010 and admission to the MBA Program.

Learning Objectives:

1. Develop an understanding of issues involved in managing people and organizations.
2. Diagnose causes of organizational problems and to develop judgment to deal with those problems.
3. Develop understanding of the behavioral factors affecting human and organizational outcomes.
4. Utilize organizational behavior concepts in human resource management.