AROUND CAMPUS

Alum Jerry Van Dyke returns for Homecoming. A much-loved veteran of dozens of television classics added a personal touch to EIU’s Homecoming celebration on Oct. 21. Danville native and EIU alumnus Jerry Van Dyke served as grand marshal during the parade. His appearance was quite fitting, given the week’s theme – “EIU Homecoming 2006 Tunes in to Classic TV Land Flicks.” Perhaps best-known to younger crowds as Assistant Coach Luther Van Dam from the 1990s sitcom “Coach,” Van Dyke has also appeared on many other shows, including “Yes, Dear,” “Grace Under Fire,” “The Drew Carey Show,” “Charles in Charge,” “Newhart,” “The Love Boat,” “Fantasy Island,” “Mary Tyler Moore,” “Love American Style,” “Gomer Pyle, U.S.M.C.” and “The Andy Griffith Show.” He also had an art-imitating-life role as Stacey Petrie, brother of Rob Petrie, in the 1960s series “The Dick Van Dyke Show.”

Foreigner delights fans of all ages for EIU Family Weekend. The legendary rock band Foreigner performed one hit after another at the sold-out Family Weekend concert held Oct. 7 in Lantz Arena. The concert included the songs “Double Vision,” “Waiting for a Girl Like You,” “Juke Box Hero” and “I Want to Know What Love Is.” All but one of the songs they performed had been Top 10 hits.

Blair Hall featured as Charleston Landmark Series Ornament of Hope. Blair Hall adorns this year’s Charleston Landmark Series Ornament of Hope. The series is a partnership between Easter Seals of Central Illinois and the Charleston Area Chamber of Commerce. EIU’s Old Main was featured on the 2001 ornament, and is the only one in the eight-ornament series that has sold out. Proceeds from the sale of ornaments support programs and services for children and adults with disabilities in Coles County. For information, contact the Charleston Area Chamber of Commerce at 217-345-7041 or Easter Seals Central Illinois at 217-429-1052, ext. 110.

Foundation honors philanthropists. The EIU Foundation held its Annual Philanthropy Awards Dinner on Oct. 20 to recognize its 2006 award winners: Max and Mary Cougill, outstanding philanthropists; Joseph Dively, outstanding volunteer; the EIU School of Business Advisory Board, outstanding organization; the Education Financing Foundation of California, outstanding foundation; and Credit Union 1, outstanding corporation. The evening included performances by EIU musicians, as well as displays of students’ academic and artistic works.

EIU hosts Sept. 11 memorial service. Many Charleston police officers and firefighters joined the EIU community on the South Quad for a special vigil to honor those impacted by the events of Sept. 11, 2001. Lou Hencken, EIU president, addressed those gathered. “Today we honor those individuals who lost their lives,” said Hencken, who spoke about the heroes on United Flight 93, those at the Pentagon and also those injured and killed at the World Trade Center in New York City. What stuck in the minds of many were the closing words from Hencken: “We have to remember every day to prevent what happened that day from ever happening again. Let us always remember.” – Journal Gazette/Times-Courier

FACULTY/STAFF HAPPENINGS

EIU volcano expert featured on PBS’s ‘Nova.’ An EIU volcano expert was featured prominently on a recent episode of the PBS program “Nova.” Professor Craig Chesner – the EIU geology/geography department’s resident mineralogist, petrologist and volcanologist – was one of the researchers consulted in “Nova’s” “Mystery of the Megavolcano.” Chesner, who joined the EIU faculty in 1989, recently returned from a one-year sabbatical at the Smithsonian Institution. While there, he was a senior fellow in their Department of Mineral Sciences, where his research involved determining the volatile content from the Toba Eruption, in Sumatra, Indonesia, via the study of melt inclusions and matrix glasses. For more information on the episode, see the Web site at http://www.pbs.org/wgbh/nova/megavolcano.

Administrator goes on bicycle patrol with Eastern police. Dan Nadler, Eastern’s vice president for student affairs, rode along with University Police Officer Ryan Risinger for the daily bicycle patrol on Oct. 3. Nadler, wearing riding gloves and a brand new blue helmet, rode next to Risinger for about an hour, with the two weaving their way through campus checking for open doors, going through parking lots to make sure everything was as it should be and looking for anything that might be out of the ordinary throughout all parts of campus. As the pair rode, they waved at students and even managed to stop and chat with a few on a break for drinks at the university’s union. As they passed by, one student commented on the renewed feeling of safety she had. Nadler said one reason he teams up with officers for his occasional patrol rides is for him to get a good feel for how officers operate on the bikes and get a realistic look at their everyday duties. “It gives me a realistic perspective of the challenges they face and the services they offer to the university,” he said. Nadler said it’s important for not only him to be visible, but for the police to be visible on campus as well. “Being visible and accessible is critical,” Nadler said. “This reminds people that the UPD is here to help.” – Journal Gazette/Times-Courier

Faculty art displayed. The annual Art Faculty Exhibition, featuring recent works in a variety of media by the EIU art faculty and emeritus faculty, continues through Nov. 26 in the Tarble Arts Center’s Main Galleries.

Reception celebrates faculty’s creative achievements. The impact of EIU’s faculty members goes far beyond the university classroom and laboratory. For this reason, the university’s College of Sciences and College of Arts and Humanities annually host a Publishing Scholars and Creative Works Reception recognizing the creative achievements of their faculty. The reception, held this year on Oct. 4, honors faculty members from the two colleges who have published books, articles or reviews; edited books or periodicals; or created artistic works within the past year. Nearly 300 individual items from more than 100 faculty members were displayed.

Faculty member to lead national organization. Linda Morford, educational administration, was inducted as president of the National Council of Professors of Educational Administration on Aug. 4, 2006, at the NCPEA Summer Conference in Lexington, Kentucky.

Student’s sketches of fallen soldiers displayed throughout state. EIU student Cameron Schilling has received much praise and attention for the sketches he’s drawn of Illinois soldiers who have died in Iraq and Afghanistan. Lt. Gov. Pat Quinn was so impressed with Schilling’s work that he helped to have the collection displayed in venues throughout the state, including Chicago and the state fair in Springfield. In late October and early November, the portraits were exhibited at EIU. Schilling started the project, which he calls “Portrait of a Soldier,” after first drawing sketches of a couple of fallen soldiers for his family’s funeral home in Mattoon. To view the portraits, visit the project’s Web site, created by Schilling and fellow EIU student Nathan Catt: http://www.portraitofasoldier.org.

EIU drum line opens for popular singers. EIU’s Midwestern Funk Factory drum line opened for two big names in the music business at recent events in Chicago and Minneapolis. The drum line, which is comprised of 20 EIU students, opened for Beyonce Knowles, a former member of Destiny’s Child, and Kelly Rowland, another Destiny’s Child band member. “We were very well received, and it was great,” said Terence Mayhue, professor of percussion at EIU and the group’s director. “It was a great confidence booster. This doesn’t happen very often, or ever, for groups our size.” The show was to be publicized by CNN, “Entertainment Tonight,” “Today” on NBC, and local access channels in Chicago. – Journal Gazette/Times-Courier

Alumni Association honors graduates for accomplishments. Several alumni were honored by the EIU Alumni Association as part of the university’s 2006 Homecoming activities. This year’s Distinguished Alumni Award recipients were health-care executive Gregg Altobella ‘88, ‘89; Florida Air National Guard Commander Joseph Balskus ‘76, ‘77; retired president of Boreal Laboratories John Currey, ‘62; oncologist Gordon Grado ‘74; Emmy Award-winning actor Jerry Van Dyke ex ‘55; and Arizona State University vice president Paul Ward ‘71, ‘74. Other award winners were Charleston teacher Linda Kirby ‘74, ‘82, ‘89, Distinguished Educator Award; long-time university supporter Ivan “Ike” Kennard ex ‘44, Alumni Service Award; and decorated U.S. Army captain Gary Kelly ’01, Outstanding Young Alumnus Award.

Graduates working in entertainment industry speak on campus. Three EIU alumni – an award-winning film critic, a film festival director and a movie executive – participated in a panel discussion titled “Hollywood Jihad: The War for American Values” on campus on Oct. 19. Dann Gire, a veteran journalist and Daily Herald film critic, currently serves as president and founding director of the Chicago Film Critics Association. Andrew Rodgers, director of the River Run International Film Festival in Winston-Salem, N.C., previously served as publicity coordinator for the Sundance Film Festival and as an entertainment writer for the Chicago Tribune and Zap2it.com. Luke Ryan, an executive at MTV Films, a studio division of Paramount Pictures, previously served as director of development at New Line Cinema. He received the 2005 EIU Young Alumnus of the Year Award.
