PART II: ASSURANCE OF STUDENT LEARNING

1. List the student learning objectives of this course:

Upon completion of the course, students will be able to:

1. Evaluate and critique current theories or practices in the field relevant to the topic.

- 3. Synthesize material, formulate a viewpoint, and extract an argument.
- 4. Communicate intelligently and intelligibly about the topic both orally and in written form.
  - a. If this is a general education course, indicate which objectives are designed to help students achieve one or more of the following goals of general education and university-wide assessment:
    - EIU graduates will write and speak effectively.
    - EIU graduates will think critically.
    - EIU graduates will function as responsible citizens.

If this is a graduate-level course, indicate which objectives are designed to help students achieve established goals for learning at the graduate level:

Depth of content knowledge #1, #2, #4
 Effective critical thinking and problem solving #1, #2, #3, #4

Effective oral and written communication #2, #4
 Advanced scholarship through research or creative activity #4

2. Identify the assignments/activities the instructor will use to determine how well students attained the learning objectives:

	Literature Reviews 30%	Discussions 20%	Research/ Creative Projects 40%	Presentations 10%
1. Evaluate and critique current theories or practices in the field relevant to the topic.	Х	Х	Х
2. Discern the importance of past, present, and future directions in the field relevant to the topic.		Х	Х
3. Synthesize material, formulate a viewpoint, and extract an argument.	Х	Х	X	Х
4. Communicate intelligently and intelligibly about the topic both orally and in written form.			X	X

3. Explain how the instructor will determine students' grades for the course:

The determination of grades will vary by topic and instructor. Grades for a typical class may be based on the following scale:

Literature Reviews (30%)

Discussion (20%) Research/Creative Projects (40%) Presentations (10%)

- 4. For technology-delivered and other nontraditional-delivered courses/sections, address the following:
  - a. Describe how the format/technology will be used to support and assess students' achievement of the specified learning objectives:

Using a course management system (CMS), students may access lectures via presentation software or learning modules that contain recorded lectures made using multimedia software. Students may also access through CMS assigned readings, links to multimedia, graded weekly discussion threads, other written assignments, rubrics, and an electronic drop box.

b. Describe how the integrity of student work will be assured:

To ensure the integrity of the course work discussion board assignments and text from all written assignments will be submitted through a plagiarism identification system. Academic integrity and online courtesy is discussed in the syllabus. Students will also be evaluated through a rigorous assessment. Discussions may use a face-to-face format or use web-conferencing software. Students will receive individual grading rubrics that specify levels of competence, and individualized instructor feedback on assignments regarding the quality of their work.

c. Describe provisions for and requirements of instructor-student and student-student interaction, including the kinds of technologies that will be used to support the interaction (e.g., e-mail, web-based discussions, computer conferences, etc.):

Class interactions will use a combination of technologically delivered discussion threads, real-time discussion, web-conferencing (virtual classroom with audio/video and white board support), email, social networks, blogs, social bookmarking, and online interactive galleries.

- 5. For courses numbered 4750-4999, specify additional or more stringent requirements for students enrolling for graduate credit. These include:
  - a. course objectives;
  - b. projects that require application and analysis of the course content; and
  - c. separate methods of evaluation for undergraduate and graduate students.
- 6. If applicable, indicate whether this course is writing-active, writing-intensive, or writing-centered, and describe how the course satisfies the criteria for the type of writing course identified. (See Appendix *.)

PART III: OUTLINE OF THE COURSE

Provide a week-by-week outline of the course's content. Specify units of time (e.g., for a 3-0-3 course, 45 fifty-minute class periods over 15 weeks) for each major topic in the outline. Provide clear and sufficient details about content and procedures so that possible questions of overlap with other courses can be addressed. For technology-delivered or other nontraditional-delivered courses/sections, explain how the course content "units" are sufficiently equivalent to the traditional on-campus semester hour units of time described above.

Class interactions will use a combination of technologically delivered discussion threads, real-time discussion, web-conferencing (virtual classroom with audio/video and white board support), email, social networks, blogs, social bookmarking, and online interactive galleries.

PART IV: PURPOSE AND NEED

1. Explain the department's rationale for developing and proposing the course.

Art 5786 offers flexibility to the art history course offerings enabling faculty to teach thematic graduate-level courses in their areas of expertise that suit the needs of students enrolled in the online Master of Arts in Art program.

- a. If this is a general education course, you also must indicate the segment of the general education program into which it will be placed, and describe how the course meets the requirements of that segment.
- b. If the course or some sections of the course may be technology delivered, explain why.

Eastern Illinois University's existing Master of Arts in Art with Art Education Option has traditionally attracted teachers living in proximity to Charleston who either desire or require a graduate degree for their professional enhancement and advancement. The technology delivered option will expand EIU's current pool of applicants and increase enrollment in this degree program.

2. Justify the level of the course and any course prerequisites, co-requisites, or registration restrictions.

Art 5786 is a graduate-level art history course and students are expected to complete graduate-level coursework. The range and complexity of course materials is intended to give a graduate-level student the opportunity to explore a complex treatment of art historical studies involving more theoretical and cultural analysis guided by a careful study of source materials.

3. If the course is similar to an existing course or courses, justify its development and offering.

This course is not similar to any other course.

- a. If the contents substantially duplicate those of an existing course, the new proposal should be discussed with the appropriate chairpersons, deans, or curriculum committees and their responses noted in the proposal.
- b. Cite course(s) to be deleted if the new course is approved. If no deletions are planned, note the exceptional need to be met or the curricular gap to be filled.

4. Impact on Program(s):

- a. For undergraduate programs, specify whether this course will be required for a major or minor or used as an approved elective.
- b. For graduate programs, specify whether this course will be a core requirement for all candidates in a degree or certificate program or an approved elective.

Art 5786 is an elective course designed to fulfill the required six hours of art history for graduate students seeking a Master of Arts in Art degree.

If the proposed course changes a major, minor, or certificate program in or outside of the department, you must submit a separate proposal requesting that change along with the course proposal. Provide a copy of the existing program in the current catalog with the requested changes noted.

PART V: IMPLEMENTATION

1. Faculty member(s) to whom the course may be assigned:

Stephen Eskilson, Janet Marquardt, Robert S. Petersen, Mary Caroline Simpson or other qualified graduate art history faculty.

If this is a graduate course and the department does not currently offer a graduate program, it must document that it employs faculty qualified to teach graduate courses.

2. Additional costs to students:

Students will not incur any additional costs from taking this course.

Include those for supplemental packets, hardware/software, or any other additional instructional, technical, or technological requirements. (Course fees must be approved by the President's Council.)

3. Text and supplementary materials to be used (Include publication dates):

Each instructor will select graduate-level readings appropriate for the topic. The following examples are for the sample course History of Narrative Art In Asia.

- Flath, J. A. The Cult of Happiness: Nianhua, Art, and History in Rural North China. Vancouver, Seattle, UBC Press; University of Washington Press, 2004.
- Kern, Adam L. Manga from the Floating World: Comic Book Culture and the Kibyōshi of Edo Japan. Cambridge, MA: Harvard University Asia Center, 2006.
- Kiyama, H. Y. and F. L. Schodt. The Four Immigrants Manga: a Japanese Experience in San Francisco, 1904-1924. Berkeley, Calif., Stone Bridge Press, 1999.
- Lent, J. A. "Comics Controversies and Codes: Reverberations in Asia." In Pulp Demons: International Dimensions of the Postwar Anti-Comics Campaign. J. A. Lent. Madison, Fairleigh Dickinson University Press, 1999: 179-214.
- Petersen, Robert S. Comics, Manga, and Graphic Novels: A History of Graphic Narrative. Santa Barbara: Praeger, 2011.
- Power, Natsu Onoda. God of Comics: Osamu Tezuka and the Creation of Post-World War II Manga. Jackson, Mississippi: University of Mississippi, 2009.

PART VI: COMMUNITY COLLEGE TRANSFER

If the proposed course is a 1000- or 2000-level course, state either, "A community college course may be judged equivalent to this course" OR "A community college course will not be judged equivalent to this course." A community college course will not be judged equivalent to a 3000- or 4000-level course but may be accepted as a substitute; however, upper-division credit will not be awarded.

A community college course will not be judged equivalent to this course.

PART VII: APPROVALS

Date approved by the department or school: March 1, 2013

Date approved by the college curriculum committee: April 3, 2013

Date approved by the Honors Council (if this is an honors course):

Date approved by CAA: CGS:

*In writing-active courses, frequent, brief writing activities and assignments are required. Such activities -- some of which are to be graded – might include five-minute in-class writing assignments, journal keeping, lab reports, essay examinations, short papers, longer papers, or a variety of other writing-to-learn activities of the instructor's invention. Writing assignments and activities in writing-active courses are designed primarily to assist students in mastering course content, secondarily to strengthen students' writing skills. In writing-intensive courses, several writing assignments and writing activities are required. These assignments and activities, which are to be spread over the course of the semester, serve the dual purpose of strengthening writing skills and deepening understanding of course content. At least one writing assignment is to be revised by the student after it has been read and commented on by the instructor. In writing-intensive courses, students' writing should constitute no less than 35% of the final course grade. In writing-centered courses (English 1001G, English 1002G, and their honors equivalents), students learn the principles and the process of writing in all of its stages, from inception to completion. The quality of students' writing is the principal determinant of the course grade. The minimum writing requirement is 20 pages (5,000 words).
