5. Online/Hybrid delivery justification & assurances (answer N/A if not applicable)

Online or hybrid delivery justification: The course is currently delivered in a face-to-face format. However, with the development of the online Aging Studies (Gerontology) MA cohort program, this course needed to be revised to be delivered in that modality.

Instruction: Students will be able to view class video recorded lectures at their convenience and submit assignments electronically. As part of the course, the graduate students will each take on a health related disability and live in a long-term care facility as a resident for 48 hours. Online discussions will be held both before and after the nursing home stay. Other methods of content dissemination will include student presentations, journal articles, websites and webinars. Feedback on written assignments will be provided through email, online course management system and online discussion sessions. Office hours for the online students will be provided. Instructors teaching online offerings will be trained/qualified as per university guidelines (e.g., OCDI).

Integrity: The instructor will correspond with each student on a regular basis. Each posting on the discussion board will reflect the student's name and will be monitored carefully. The discussions will be structured in a manner that will allow for the integration of the materials on a deeper level. Turnitin plagiarism software will be used to help ensure original and authentic written work.

Interaction: For the online course delivery, students will be required to listen to pre-recorded lectures posted in the online course management system, submit documents electronically, and post/discuss class content using the online course management system and a web conferencing program.
