

Dear colleagues,

I am pleased to announce Dr. Nichole Mulvey, Professor in the Department of Communication Disorders and Sciences, as the recipient of the 2023 CHHS Dale and Deb Wolf Outstanding Service Award. Dr. Mulvey has provided an extraordinary amount of department, college, university, community, and professional service in the last 10 years of which she has been employed by EIU. Her colleagues praised Dr. Mulvey's dedication to service in the last year, stating:

“Dr. Mulvey has modeled exemplary service over the past year...while she gives significant effort to her multiple roles in the Communication Disorders and Sciences department, including graduate coordinator, she devotes additional tremendous effort to service.”

In 2022-2023, Dr. Mulvey served on the University Strategic Planning Committee, EIU Presidential Search Committee, and Faculty Senate. In addition, Dr. Mulvey served as the convention coordinator for the Illinois Speech-Language-Hearing Association and on the Special Interest Group for the American Speech-Language Association.

While an in-person celebration and recognition of this outstanding achievement in the College will take place at the beginning of the Fall 2023 semester, please join me in congratulating Dr. Nichole Mulvey as the recipient of the 2023 CHHS Wolf Outstanding Service Award. We thank her for setting such a high standard of service excellence and appreciate all that she has done for the Department, College, and University.

We are grateful to Deb and Dale Wolf for their continuing support of the mission of CHHS, and the members of the CHHS Research and Scholarship Committee for their excellent selection.

Once again, congratulations on receiving this recognition from your peers.

Sincerely,

John Storsved, Dean

About the Wolf Outstanding Service Award

The Wolf Outstanding Service Award was established during the 2021-2022 academic year to honor and celebrate an annual recipient committed to applied learning through service to the department, college, community, and/or profession. The award will be annually presented to a CHHS faculty member who has enthusiastically contributed superior service while consistently promoting personal, community, and global health. The award is made possible through the generous support of Dale and Deb Wolf, who dedicated the majority of their professional careers to the success of Eastern Illinois University: Dale as Director of Admissions for over 20 years, and Deb as a tenured faculty member in the Department of Physical Education (now KSR). They share a continuing passion for service to university, community, and profession.
