

As a student president, I'll represent our school by promoting it to existing and potential students, their families, members of the local community, and the professional establishment. The question "Why do you want to be a student president?" is used by school administrators to learn more about candidates' motivation and communication abilities before making president selections.

Vice president of the student council is an enviable position. I'll get to work directly with the president on initiatives that will have a significant influence on our school, take part in exciting student council-sponsored activities, and assume full leadership responsibilities while the president is absent. I'll need to win the election first before we can cash in on these benefits. we need not fear.
