

According to my understanding, an individual must have a combination of technical, financial, and social abilities, as well as a desire to ask questions and get connected with students as well as the association. When making business decisions, it is also critical that the individual can gain trust, operate ethically, and behave with integrity and confidence. A treasurer's communication and interpersonal skills are essential.

I have prior experience working with Dell technologies. As part of my career advancement, I have opted to complete a master's degree, and as part of this journey, I would want to work with ISA and gather critical thinking abilities. This is a chance for me to learn new abilities and grow as a leader.

If given the opportunity, I would like to work with ISA and students to exchange knowledge and assist others.
