

BACHELOR OF ARTS IN T.V. & VIDEO PRODUCTION

HANDS-ON PRODUCTION EXPERIENCE.

The Television & Video Production major provides an innovative and comprehensive hands-on experience in producing television, film, and video. From cinematic productions to live broadcasts, students engage with every production element in a wide variety of genres and formats.

Through classes and practical experiences, students learn to develop, shoot, edit, promote, and perform in various audiovisual media formats taught by experienced and invested faculty. From their first production class through their internships, students spend their time producing television, short films, and a wide variety of video content. Our faculty members have extensive production experience and advanced degrees in media, enabling us to mentor students through every production aspect and develop their technical and creative skills.

SPECIALIZATION & CUSTOMIZATION

- + MEDIA FOCUS: All required courses focus on the art, science, and business of media. Our focus on depth leads to an unparalleled technical and symbolic understanding of television, video, and film.
- + HANDS-ON EXPERIENCES: From their first production class through their internships, students spend their time at EIU producing television, short films, and a wide variety of video content.
- + MENTORING & TECHNICAL SUPPORT: We provide the technical resources and support necessary for students to succeed in the major and in their future careers, including video and audio production facilities.
